FOUNDER'S MESSAGE

Choosing HOPE in Times of DESPAIR — Sreeja Iyer

The world our children are growing up in can often feel overwhelming. Wars, climate crises, loneliness and failing systems are no longer distant headlines but a part of children's everyday reality. It is easy to respond with despair.

Yet hope begins by acknowledging that the despair is real.

The turning point comes when we ask a different question: What can I do?

One of our children witnessed a dog being run over on a busy road. Instead of concluding that no one cared, she chose to act. Rooted in her values of care and inclusion, she sourced glow-in-the-dark collars and along with others, helped place them on over 300 community dogs. A moment of helplessness became a movement of hope.

This is the kind of hope I wish for our children. Not passive optimism, but hope expressed through empathy, values and action.

Across our city, we are discovering countless "Islands of Hope", people and communities quietly solving problems, restoring ecosystems, building belonging and caring for one another. They remind us that while no one can solve every problem, everyone can solve something.

Perhaps that is the lesson our children need most: in times of despair, hope is not something we wait for. It is something we choose to create, together, one meaningful action at a time.

AIRING SHAME & TURNING TO LIGHT

When we bring our fears and struggles into the open, they lose their power.

Together, we can transform shame into understanding, courage, and hope.

Community Spotlight

The Sparkling Mindz Premier League (SPL) Season 4 brought our community together in a celebration of teamwork, sportsmanship, and spirited competition. After weeks of exciting matches, The Rising Dragons (TRD) emerged as this year's champions, showcasing resilience, collaboration, and determination throughout the tournament.

Congratulations to TRD and to every player, volunteer, and family who made SPL another memorable celebration of community.

Walking Through HISTORY

A Visit to Tipu Sultan's Summer Palace

History stepped off the pages of books as Preschoolers explored Tipu Sultan's Summer Palace. They admired towering pillars, pointed excitedly at the Indian flag, and filled the space with questions like, "Why did the British take the throne?" and "Can we bring it back?", "Why did Tipu's mother not fight with him?" Rather than remembering dates, children connected with stories of courage, freedom, and people who once lived there. Experiences like these remind us that history is best understood when it can be seen, touched, questioned, and imagined.

From Earth To Imagination

Children's First Conversations with Clay

A simple question-"Where does clay come from?"-sparked our first clay exploration. As children moulded and shaped clay, they explored curiosity, sensory learning, and scientific thinking, discovering that meaningful learning often begins with a handful of Earth.

Wearing Our Stories

Celebrating the Many Cultures of India

Children celebrated India's rich diversity by wearing traditional attire, sharing favourite foods, treasured artefacts, and stories from home. Through these experiences, they explored culture, belonging, and the joy of learning from one another.

STORY CIRCLE Join Us This August 22nd

Our monthly Story Circle brings children and families together through books that spark curiosity and connection. This month, we'll be reading 'All the Colours of the Earth', a celebration of identity, belonging, and diversity.

GRANDPARENT CONNECT Stories That Bring Us Together

Grandparents and children came together for a morning of stories, games, and shared memories. The gathering celebrated the joy of intergenerational learning and the meaningful connections built through conversation and play.
